“ I will always have fond memories of Mrs Irene Jackson and her classroom instructions. She would make me write papers and poems over and over until I got them right. I often think about and laugh at the poem "Fishermans Lair", which was my favorite poem. She hated that poem and she would let me know about it. What I really will cherish is the times while working as a police officer, I would go over to her house, shine my light and walk around and check on per. I would leave her notes on her car or in her door to let her know I was checking up on her. Somehow, I know she had a part in me turning out the way I did. It was just my small way of saying thanks.

“ I can see Mrs. Jackson now, standing at the board in the Little Flower Academy 5th grade classroom. My grammar and writing skills soared to new heights when she became my teacher. Penmanship as well. Seems like only yesterday. God's speed all.
